Reasons for Allowance

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: the prior art of record, absent applicant's own disclosure, fails to teach the entire combination of elements set forth in the claimed invention. Specifically, the prior art of record fails to teach an automotive seal comprising a first section piece forming a clip of U-shaped cross section, a second section piece consisting of an elastically deformable flexible material, said second section piece abutting the outside of a branch of said first section piece and forming a tubular member, at least one orifice in said second section piece fluidly communicating the inside of the second section piece with the outside of said second section piece, and a third section piece consisting of an elastically deformable flexible material having a hardness of between about 30 to about 35 Shore A being housed within the confines of said second section piece (5), said third section piece forming a sealed tubular member connected to a source supplying a non-compressible liquid under a variably controllable pressure to said sealed tubular member of air-tight and liquid-tight construction and which is expansively deformable in response to the pressure generated by said fluid liquid for coming into surface contact with an interior wall surface of said second section piece so as to enhance the sealing and soundproofing properties of the seal. See claim 9, lines 2-20. Although references such as Yasukawa et al. teach a seal having a second section piece being expandable by a compressible fluid, references such as Glossop et al. teach a seal having a Shore A hardness of between about 30 to about 35, references such as Dettloff teach a seal having an orifice, and references such as Gerrard teach a seal expandable by a pressurized non-compressible fluid, one with ordinary skill in the art would not be motivated to combine the teachings of such references without the benefit of the applicant's disclosure.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
